

meet the Pharms family

Arielle is a single mother of one, Amora and works at Allied Universal Protection Services.

“ Since my daughter was born, she has had complications with her health. At birth, she had thirteen seizures, bleeding to the brain that was caused by a stroke in utero. It was a great chance she would not be able to walk or talk and might be delayed in many areas. As a single income household, I have had to work doubles to provide a decent home and pay for my daughter’s health needs.

I must say being a supermom can be exhausting but rewarding at the same time. After all the trials and tribulations we both have been through, I am tired of renting from landlords that raise their rent every year. I am tired of renting from landlords that don’t want to keep the property up. With a Habitat home, I can pass down something of sentimental value and tangible value to my baby that she can call hers one day. ”

"With the help of Habitat, my dreams are turning into reality."
